

76TH INFANTRY BRIGADE COMBAT TEAM

Shoulder Sleeve Insignia

Combat Service Identification Badge

Distinctive Unit Insignia

Shoulder Sleeve Insignia. Description: On a rectangle arced at the top and bottom with a 1/8 inch (.32 cm) white border, 2 inches (5.08 cm) in width and 3 inches (7.62 cm) in height overall, a white arrowhead throughout bearing a black bayonet.

Symbolism: Blue and white are the colors traditionally associated with Infantry units. The arrowhead and bayonet underscore the unit's primary mission. Black and white denote the Brigade's 24-hour readiness and capabilities.

Background: The shoulder sleeve insignia was originally approved for the 76th Infantry Brigade on 21 March 1995. It was redesignated for the 76th Infantry Brigade Team on 24 April 2008. (TIOH Dwg. No. A-1-817)

COMBAT SERVICE IDENTIFICATION BADGE: A silver color metal and enamel device 2 inches (5.08 cm) in height consisting of a design similar to the shoulder sleeve insignia.

Distinctive Unit Insignia. Description: A silver color metal and enamel device 1 1/4 inches (3.18 cm) in width consisting of a red arrowhead bearing a silver fleur-de-lis superimposed by two diagonally crossed silver bayonets, all upon a blue scroll inscribed at the top "POINT THE WAY" in silver.

Symbolism: Blue and white/silver are the colors traditionally associated with Infantry units. The arrowhead, highlighting the unit's motto, is red, alluding to the Brigade's war service and Meritorious Unit Commendations. The fleur-de-lis symbolizes their assault landing in France during World War II. The bayonets, which reflect the unit's mission, symbolize military preparedness and are crossed to denote strength and cooperation.

Background: The distinctive unit insignia was originally approved for the 76th Infantry Brigade on 21 March 1995. It was redesignated for the 76th Infantry Brigade Combat Team on 24 April 2008.
